ABOUT USIR

In July 2018, the United States Inter-Regional Highland Dancing Championship (USIR) for Scottish Highland Dancing will take place in Gettysburg, Pennsylvania . This prestigious four-day event will attract hundreds of Highland Dancers and their families from all over the United States and Canada. In addition to the U.S. Championship, there are other dancing events throughout the weekend, including the North American Championship.

The USIR is the Federation of United States Teachers and Adjudicators' (FUSTA) National Highland Dancing Championship. All of the weekend's events will be organized by the East Region of FUSTA, a volunteer based non-profit organization dedicated to fostering and promoting the tradition and heritage of Highland Dancing in the United States. Held once a year, the event rotates around the country between six regions. Dancers compete for the chance to dance in the USIR each Spring at their individual regional championship, where only the top three in each age group advance.

We look forward to welcoming the Highland Dance community and the top dancers in the nation to Gettysburg. To support this prestigious event, the East Region will rely on the generous support from individual and corporate donations. We appreciate your consideration as we not only honor an art form with a rich legacy, but the dancers who have worked so hard to qualify.

HIGHLAND DANCE

Highland dance is used today to refer to a style of athletic solo dancing which was developed in the Gaelic Highlands of Scotland. Forms of sword dancing were performed by warriors in many parts of Europe in the prehistoric period and in the late Medieval times. Highland dance evolved into its current form during the nineteenth and twentieth centuries in the context of competitions at public events (namely Highland games), where it is performed to the accompaniment of Highland bagpipe music.

Today, Highland dancing can be seen at nearly every modern day Highland games event. It is a highly competitive and technical dance form for both male and female, requiring many hours of practice and training over a period of several years. In terms of the technical requirements and the training required to perform, Highland dancing has much in common with ballet. It takes a massive amount of stamina and arm/leg strength, no matter how old the dancer is. Highland dance is recognized as a sport by the Sport Council of Scotland.
